

Message from
H.E. Irfan Siddiq OBE,
British Ambassador to the Republic of Sudan

---

Sudan is one of the few largely untapped big markets in Africa. The United Kingdom and Sudan have historically enjoyed strong business and wider links. Many of these relationships have proved remarkably resilient and enduring, despite the challenges of international sanctions and other factors in recent decades. We are keen to see the United Kingdom and Sudan forge stronger business links as part of a growing broader engagement, spanning (among other themes) development, human rights and regional issues. We look forward to continuing to work to support this aim. F
